

The Shersah of Kargil : Captain Vikram Batra, P.V.C. By Deepak Surana What made a young man of twenty ditch a highly-paid job with the merchant navy? What made Captain Batra the daredevil commando he was? What were his aspirations and dreams? Who were his closest people and what did he do to show the love he had for his soulmate? Why was he called The Shersah of Kargil? What made him say Yeh Dil Maange More at 17000 feet? And what was the impact he had on the nation at a time when things looked bleak? Read The Shersah of Kargil to know about this hero and much more. Being a big fan of defence bravery I do not wish to bring down this book but at the start time I felt this was not a well-written piece particularly the way the author went about it at the start later the story felt good during the wartime the worldly mannerism was better, Having done his schooling at Bishop Cotton Boys School Bangalore he developed an interest in the armed forces at a very young age: He is very passionate about the Indian army and has met many war veterans and families of Martyrs over the years, His aim in life is to do everything he can to help awaken the people of our country to the deeds of the men in uniform. To achieve this he became a member of the team Desh in 2016 and has been an active part of it since: He loves sports and has played cricket for his school and various other clubs in Bangalore: He is an avid reader and has a collection of books which mainly include militar Deepak Surana is a twenty one year old B, Having done his schooling at Bishop Cotton Boys School Bangalore he developed an interest in the armed forces at a very young age, He is very passionate about the Indian army and has met many war veterans and families of Martyrs over the years.
